Buying a new-build home

If you are planning to buy a new home, the Consumer Code for Home Builders is here to support you.

Buying a new-build home is an exciting time. But as it is one of the largest investments you're likely to make, it's important that you understand the process, what you're buying and what help is available if problems arise.

The Code is designed to help you understand what levels of service to expect from your builder, feel fully informed about your purchase and understand the protection available before and after you move in. In the unlikely event that problems arise, a free and fast Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme is available to deal with disputes if you think your builder has breached the Code Requirements.

Here are some examples of the protection offered by the Code:

- Your reservation fee. Your builder must return your reservation fee in full if you change your mind within the cooling-off period. Your reservation fee will still be refunded if you change your mind outside of the cooling-off period, minus any reasonable costs, which your builder must outline in advance.
- Your deposit. Your builder must have in place arrangements for protecting your deposit so that they can refund it in the unlikely event they go out of business before completing your home. Your home warranty body also provides cover, which may result in completion of your home.
- High-pressure sales tactics. Builders are likely to be found in breach of the Code if they put you under undue pressure to make a sale.
- Your right to cancel your contract. If your builder significantly changes the specification of your home and did not get your agreement, or if there is an unreasonable delay in finishing the construction, you may be able to pull out of the purchase, even after exchange of contracts, and receive a full refund.
- After-sales service. Home builders are required to provide an after-sales service and an accessible complaints service to support you for up to two years after legal completion.

Since it was launched in 2010, the Code has been regularly updated. This version offers you a broader level of protection and gives you the opportunity to identify defects and get them resolved before you move in (see section 4.1.1).

If you have any questions about the Code's protection, or want to find out more about what to expect from your new home, visit the blogs and resources for home buyers on our website or contact our enquiries team on 0345 608 9797 or enquiries@consumercode.co.uk.

Guide to the document

This document provides you with:

- the Code Requirements that builders must comply with
- an introduction to how the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme works, and
- a 'meaning of words' section that explains the specific terms we use and what they mean in the context of the Code. These begin with a capital letter to signify they have a special meaning.

Protection for new-build home buyers

Introduction

The Consumer Code came into force on 1 April 2010 and covers Homes built in the UK¹.

This fifth edition applies to:

- all Reservations signed on or after the implementation date of 1 January 2024,² and
- all the Buyers and Homes stated in the Scope on pages 10-11.

The Code sets Requirements that all Builders must meet in their marketing and selling of Homes and their After-sales Service.

In addition to the specific Requirements, we provide Builders with Guidance to help demonstrate ways to support consumers. This information can also help you understand what to expect from your builder and can be found in the home builders resources section of our website.

Builders must adopt the standards of good practice, procedures and information in the Guidance to meet each Requirement, unless they take a different approach to satisfying the Requirements.

If they take such a different approach, they must provide a similar level of information and achieve a similar outcome to what the Guidance says.

The Code and Guidance should be read alongside the section about the Scope of the Code (pages 10-11).

More advice is available on the Consumer Code website www.consumercode.co.uk

The Code also benefits second and subsequent Buyers of the Home but only regarding after-sales matters reported to the Builder within two years of the date of the Legal Completion of the original Home purchase.

If a Builder is found to be in serious breach of the Code, sanctions are available through the Code Management Board working with the Home Warranty Bodies. These include:

- removal from the relevant Home Warranty Bodies' register, and
- exclusion from all registers run by other Home Warranty Bodies that take part in the Code Scheme.

The Code is underpinned by an Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme operated through CEDR Ltd. CEDR Ltd is approved by the Chartered Trading Standards Institute as the 'competent authority' acting on behalf of the Secretary of State for dealing with Disputes that are raised with the Builder from the Reservation date until two years after the date of Legal Completion.

Buyers who think they have a Dispute because a Builder has failed to meet the Requirements may choose to refer it to the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme.

¹ Homes in the Isle of Man may also be covered but Buyers should ask their Builder or check the information provided when they reserve their plot.

² For customers who enter into an Early Bird arrangement but who don't go on to reserve a home, only sections 2.2.5 and 5.2 apply.

To encourage Builders to adopt the Code and to enable the Consumer Code's Management Board to check how well it is being applied, or whether it needs to be amended or updated, the following activities may be carried out:

- Research.
- Audits, which may include audits of Builders' systems and documents, desktop self-assessment questionnaires and site visits.
- Mystery-shopping surveys.
- Annual returns or reports from Builders.
- Reviews and assessments of customer satisfaction feedback and complaints.
- Training for Builders.

Nothing in the Code affects a Buyer's existing legal rights or replaces Builders' legal obligations or existing legislation regarding the Home. Buyers do not have to make a complaint to the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme for matters that are covered by the Code. They may decide to take alternative action instead, such as through the civil courts.

Purpose of the Code

The aim of the Code is for all Buyers:

- to be treated fairly by the Builder (and their Agent)
- to understand the Builder's legal status and identity as a company, so the Buyer understands who they have bought their new home from
- to be given clear and reliable information on which to make informed decisions about purchasing a Home
- to know what standards the Builder must deliver for the Home
- to know what service levels to expect from the Builder (and their Agent)
- to receive clear advice about the main aspects of the Home that the Buyer will need to maintain
- to know how to access timely arrangements for resolving Disputes if they are dissatisfied
- who may be Vulnerable to be identified and given suitable support to help them make decisions.

Scope of the Code

This edition of the Code applies to all Buyers who have signed a Reservation Agreement³ on or after 1 January 2024 for a new or newly converted Home that has been built in the UK⁴ by a Builder registered with one of the Home Warranty Bodies, subject to the exclusions listed below.

All Builders must fully comply with the Code.

The Code applies to the Home from the date of signing the Reservation Agreement until two years after the date of Legal Completion as set out in the Requirements.

The Code and the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme do not apply to:

- homes that at the time of reservation by the first Buyer are covered by the New Homes Quality Code
- homes bought under a shared-ownership scheme⁵
- second-hand homes (for example, those taken by Builders in part-exchange and re-sold)
- new-build Homes that were not sold by a Builder registered with a Home Warranty Body
- new-build Homes for which a New Home Warranty has not been issued by a Home Warranty Body
- homes that remain under the Builder's ownership
- homes acquired by social landlords for rent
- homes acquired by corporate bodies, partnerships, charitable organisations, commercial landlords or other non-consumer purchasers such as individuals acting in the course of trade or business buying a Home for investment purposes
- homes acquired by a receiver and sold on to consumers
- homes built by self-builders or under contract between a Builder and an individual for their own occupation
- homes assigned or sub-sold by an investor to a third party before their ownership transfers from the Builder to the Buyer
- homes built under a professional consultant's certificate, unless a Home Warranty Body has also issued a New Home Warranty.

³ For customers who enter into an Early Bird arrangement but who don't go on to reserve a home, only sections 2.2.5 and 5.2 apply.

⁴ Homes in the Isle of Man may also be covered but Buyers should ask their Builder or check the information provided when they reserve their plot.

⁵ Complaints from Buyers who have purchased under a shared-ownership scheme may be considered under an existing statutory Ombudsman Scheme. However, this can be a complex matter. It will depend on the contractual relationship with the housing association (or landlord) and Builder. Help may be sought from a Professional Adviser.

The Code does not cover Disputes that concern:

- matters that are covered by the New Home Warranty
- damaged or faulty items not caused by the Builder or their Agents
- Snags not reported to the Builder within the Builder's stated timescales for reporting such matters
- claims that exceed the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme's limits unless the complainant opts to restrict their claim to the Scheme limit
- personal injury claims
- loss of property value or blight
- claims about land conveyed or its registered title
- complaints already dealt with by an alternative dispute-resolution process including courts and ombudsman schemes.

Matters within the scope of other dispute-resolution or ombudsman schemes should be referred to the relevant organisation. In such cases, these schemes may take precedence over the Code and the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme.

5. After Occupation Starts

5.1 After-sales Service and Defects Resolution

- 5.1.1 The Builder must give the Buyer a comprehensive and accessible After-sales Service for at least two years after Legal Completion.
- 5.1.2 This service should include the following things:
- Dealing with Snags that the Buyer notifies to the Builder during the two years after Legal Completion.
 - Rectifying Defective, Faulty or Incomplete Works in the Home that the Builder becomes aware of during the two years after Legal Completion.
 - Repairing or replacing appliances and mechanical and electrical equipment provided by the Builder that develop faults (excluding wear and tear, lack of maintenance, misuse etc.) during the two years after Legal Completion.
 - Remediating problems associated with any fixtures and fittings (excluding wear and tear, lack of maintenance, misuse etc.) provided by the Builder. This includes items not supplied as standard with the Home but for which the Buyer paid the Builder.
- 5.1.3 The Builder must ensure that Snags or Defective, Faulty or Incomplete Works covered by the After-sales Service are resolved as soon as possible and within a mutually agreed timescale.
- 5.1.4 To make sure the Buyer understands how to access the After-sales Service, the Builder must provide the Buyer with suitable information about the service. It must include:
- a written statement of their After-sales Service procedures
 - an explanation of their responsibility for remedying any Defective, Faulty or Incomplete Works arising in the property for at least two years after the date of Legal Completion, under the terms of the New Home Warranty
 - an explanation of how Snags and Defective, Faulty or Incomplete Works and service calls will be managed, including timescales; how they should be reported and the names and contact information of the Builder's staff to whom such issues should be addressed
 - an explanation of the process for reporting and handling emergencies, including what qualifies as an emergency that the Builder will deal with
 - a written explanation of what constitutes Defective, Faulty or Incomplete Works during the first two years after Legal Completion and the Builder's liability to remedy them, giving references to the relevant Home Warranty Body's standards
 - an explanation of what is normal maintenance and 'running in', which are the Buyer's responsibilities, particularly for maintaining such things as boilers and appliances
 - details of how the Buyer can make a formal Complaint about any issue or problem (including Snags and Defective, Faulty or Incomplete Works) if they are unhappy with how the Builder proposes to deal with it.

5.2 Complaints and Disputes

- 5.2.1 The Builder must have, and keep to, a system and procedures for receiving, handling and resolving Buyer's Complaints and Disputes (see section 5.2.4).
- 5.2.2 The Builder must give the Buyer a written statement of the process for making a formal Complaint and for resolving Disputes if the Builder and the Buyer fail to agree on the resolution. It should include details of how the Buyer can escalate such an issue to the following:
- The Builder
 - The Home Warranty Body regarding any matters that fall under the Home Warranty Body's dispute resolution service or warranty cover.
 - The Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme.
- 5.2.3 The Builder's Complaints Procedure must be given to the Buyer and made available on the Builder's website.
- 5.2.4 The Builder's Complaints Procedure must clearly state the following:
- That the Builder will provide a written acknowledgement of the Complaint to the Buyer within five working days of the Complaint being made.
 - That the Buyer can expect a more detailed response from the Builder within 20 working days of a Complaint being made. Where applicable, the response should include one or more of the following:
 - An acceptance of the Complaint and what action the Builder is going to take to resolve the issue(s) raised.
 - An estimated timescale for the work required to resolve the issue(s) raised. The time may vary depending on, for example, the nature of the issues raised, investigation work needed, the lead time for sourcing materials, and the preparation work needed.
 - A rejection of the Complaint and details of the reason(s) why the Complaint is rejected.
 - Details of any further investigation work necessary to determine the outcome of the Builder's decision to either accept or reject the complaint, including timescales.
 - That a written final response will be provided as soon as possible after any further investigation has been carried out and that it will set out what part(s) of the Buyer's Complaint the Builder agrees with as well as (where appropriate), what part(s) the Builder disagrees with and why.
 - That if the Complaint becomes a Dispute, the Buyer may refer it direct to the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme or the Home Warranty Body (or both) as appropriate:
 - if the Buyer does not receive any response from the Builder within 20 working days of a Complaint being made
 - if the Buyer cannot reach an amicable resolution to the Complaint with the Builder within 56 calendar days of the Complaint being made
 - if the Defective, Faulty or Incomplete Works or issues arising are not resolved within timescales agreed between the Buyer and the Builder.

- That using their Complaints Procedure or the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme does not affect the Buyer's normal legal rights. If the issue is not covered by the New Home Warranty, the Home Warranty Body may give the Buyer details about the Code's Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme. See also section 5.1 - After-sales Service and Defects Resolution.
- That a Dispute may be brought to the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme after 56 calendar days have passed since the Buyer first raised the Complaint with the Builder and no later than 12 months after the Builder's final response to the Complaint.

5.3 Co-operation with Professional Advisers

- 5.3.1 The Builder must co-operate with appropriately qualified Professional Advisers (or agreed intermediary) appointed by the Buyer to help with the purchase of the Home, any pre-inspection and in the resolution of any Complaints before they become a Dispute.
- 5.3.2 The Builder must provide the same level of co-operation to an agreed intermediary representing the Buyer (e.g. a family member or friend) as they would to the Buyer.

Introduction to the Consumer Code Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme

The Code is underpinned by an Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme operated through CEDR Ltd. CEDR Ltd is approved by the Chartered Trading Standards Institute as the 'competent authority' acting on behalf of the Secretary of State for dealing with Disputes that are raised with the Builder from the Reservation date until two years after the date of Legal Completion.

A Dispute may arise if a Buyer believes the Builder has failed to meet the Code's Requirements and it falls outside the Home Warranty Body's resolution scheme for defects or damage. If so, the Dispute may be resolved by the Buyer applying to the Consumer Code's Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme. This means a trained adjudicator will review written submissions from both parties and issue a Decision based on their conclusions. The Adjudicator will decide whether or not a Builder has breached the Consumer Code's Requirements and if so, whether or not the Buyer has been caused detriment or suffered financial loss (or both) as a result.

The following is a summary of this process. More detailed information is available in the 'How are complaints dealt with?' section of our website.

Complaint and response

- 1 A Buyer must first complain to their Builder and give the Builder the opportunity to investigate and put things right.
- 2 If the Buyer is not satisfied with the Builder's final written response, the Buyer should contact the Home Warranty Body that issued the Home Warranty on their Home.

Action by Home Warranty Body

- 3 If the Buyer refers the complaint to the Home Warranty Body, it will, if appropriate:
 - 3.1 Deal with the complaint under its Home Warranty policy or its own dispute resolution scheme, where appropriate, for defects or damage.
 - 3.2 If the complaint falls outside its own dispute resolution scheme for defects or damage, give the Buyer information about the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme. The Buyer can then decide if they want to refer their Complaint to the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme.

The Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme adjudication process

- 4 If a Buyer decides to refer a Dispute to the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme, the following adjudication process happens:
 - 4.1 The Buyer must complete an application form and send it to the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme with any evidence they wish to rely on. The Buyer's application form should contain all the information relevant to the Dispute and, where possible, identify the Requirements they allege have been breached. The Buyer should also provide copies of receipts or other evidence of expenditure if making a financial claim.

- 4.2 The Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme will ask the Builder to respond to the Buyer's application and supporting evidence. At this stage the Builder may resolve the Dispute without a formal adjudication – this is called 'early settlement' and costs the Builder a reduced case fee of £150⁶ plus VAT.
- 4.3 If early settlement does not happen, the Builder must submit their response to the Buyer's application along with a payment of £500⁶ plus VAT. The Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme will give the Buyer a copy of the Builder's response and will be invited to respond if they wish. At this stage, the Buyer cannot add any new complaints or issues to the Dispute.
- 4.4 The Adjudicator will consider both submissions and decide whether or not the Builder has breached the Consumer Code Requirements and, if so, whether or not the Buyer has been caused detriment or suffered financial loss (or both) as a result. Both parties will be expected to have acted reasonably and to have controlled their costs.
- 4.5 The Adjudicator will prepare a written proposed conclusion to the Dispute, with reasons for that proposed conclusion ("the Proposed Decision"), and send it to both parties. The parties will be invited to provide comments on any factual inaccuracies and/or errors in law.
- 4.6 The Adjudicator will consider any comments made and has the power to make any amendments they consider appropriate to the Proposed Decision before making their final Decision.
- 4.7 The Decision may be a performance award (where the Builder has to do something, such as apologise to the Buyer) or a financial award (where the Builder has to pay the Buyer money) or a combination of the two. The maximum value of the combined award available under the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme is £50,000 including VAT.
- 4.8 The Adjudicator may make a discretionary award for upset and inconvenience, up to a maximum of £2,000. They will do so if, in their sole consideration and opinion, the Buyer has been caused more than minor inconvenience as a result of the Dispute or how the Builder handled it (or both). The Buyer will not receive an award for upset and inconvenience if the Adjudicator does not find a breach of the Code. The £50,000 maximum award includes any award for inconvenience.
- 4.9 The Decision cannot be appealed; it can only be accepted or rejected by the Buyer.

Awards: acceptance, refusal and liability

- 5 Under the rules of registration, the Home Warranty Bodies require each registered Builder to honour any Decision made against them under the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme. If the Buyer accepts the Decision, the courts will usually recognise this as evidence that the Buyer's claim was valid.
- 6 If the Decision requires the Builder to make a financial award and the Buyer unconditionally accepts it in writing, the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme will give the Builder written notification of this. The Builder must pay the financial award to the Buyer within 20 working days of the date on which the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme informs the Builder that the Buyer has accepted the Decision.
- 7 If the Decision requires the Builder to take any other action and the Buyer accepts that Decision, the Builder must complete the necessary action within 20 working days, or within any other timescale the Adjudicator gives. The Builder must tell the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme that they have done so.

⁶ Case fees are subject to annual review

- 8 It may be that the Builder cannot do what is directed in the Decision within 20 working days, or any alternative timescale that the Adjudicator gives. If so, the Builder must tell the Buyer and the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme why and give a date for the actions to be completed.
- 9 If the Buyer fails to permit the Builder to carry out the actions necessary to comply with the Decision, the Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme will consider the Decision to have been rejected by the Buyer.
- 10 A Buyer should understand that if they refuse to accept the Decision, any subsequent legal action is likely to take account of the Decision.
- 11 A Builder remains liable to comply with the directions made in a Decision that has been accepted by the Buyer, even if they are removed from a Home Warranty Body's register.
- 12 The Consumer Code's Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme is independent of the Home Warranty Bodies. Decisions made under the Consumer Code's Independent Dispute Resolution Scheme are not insured under the Home Warranty Bodies' Home Warranty schemes.
